

AMENDMENTS TO THE SPECIFICATION

Paragraph [0087] of the specification

5

[0087] One distinct feature of the invention is that the directory server views look like any other entry, and their hierarchies look like any other hierarchy. The fact that a view ~~is a view~~ is transparent to the client application ~~and requires~~ means that no special knowledge of the views is required to use them. The 10 attribute means that they can be put to work in existing installations and can be used by existing custom clients and third party vendor clients alike, including the command line utilities shipped with the directory server.
